

POLITICAL PARADE

By CLEM WHITAKER

There's a political battle now forming in California which will make most of the hotly-contested, spectacular controversies of the past seem like simple skirmishes by comparison—an all-out battle for legislative control which, by its outcome, may determine the whole course of legislation and government in California for decades to come!

The issue was drawn when representatives of the California State Federation of Labor, meeting in Sacramento, voted to sponsor an initiative measure at next year's election providing for the election of members of the State Senate on a population basis, and outlawing the present Federal plan of legislative representation.

Indicative of the furious battle which will be waged, the labor delegates pledged themselves to raise a campaign fund of $500,000, and announced that $25,000 already had been promised by the electrical workers to start the circulation of initiative petitions.

Labor's objective in submitting the new plan of legislative representation to the voters is to win complete control of both houses of the Legislature and to spike the guns of rural districts, which usually elect more conservative members than those elected from the cities. But other issues will be engendered by the campaign, for Los Angeles county, if the labor program was adopted, would control 40 per cent of the votes in both the Senate and Assembly—and, for all practical purposes, would be in position to dictate to the other 57 counties. On labor issues, with the unions heavily entrenched in the three big cities, labor would undoubtedly dominate, but on other issues Los Angeles county, with only a minimum of bargaining, would be in position to put through any program it sponsored.

The approaching battle, while it may seem clear-cut on the first appraisal, promises to be as complicated as a cross-word puzzle. Los Angeles, for example, has violently resisted becoming a "closed shop" town—and has looked down its nose at San Francisco, where labor unionism is a dominant influence. But labor, while it hasn't captured Los Angeles, can always elect part of the Los Angeles legislative delegation—and that part, combined with labor votes from San Francisco and Oakland could push through labor legislation (under the new program) which would not only crack down on rural California, but on Los Angeles. And that factor, even though Los Angeles would win a dominant voice in the Legislature by the program, is likely to have a vital influence on how the more conservative citizens of Los Angeles vote on the new scheme.

Rural California's voters on the proposal can almost be counted in advance. They

Thrilling Drama Scheduled For Thursday, May 8

Members of The Footlighters cast in the production "Under the Gaslight" are entering the final week of rehearsal and preparations are nearly complete for the presentation on Thursday evening, May 8 at the Campbell Union High school auditorium, starting at 8 o'clock.

This old fashioned melodrama of the 19th century, wherein the hero and friends save the heroine from a villainous villain as ever walked the streets, and a fate worse than death, will thrill those who remember and have witnessed the productions of life and love in those times.

Go and see the heroine turned out into a cold, cruel world to fend for herself and witness a touching scene when she is spurned by society and her lover. The villain and his partner are ever present and a truly dramatic situation takes place on an old riverside dock, with water and boat included. By all means see the thrilling rescue from death under the wheels of a locomotive. Do not miss this exemplification of love triumphant.

Dean Chamberlin, who has directed previous plays for The Footlighters, has charge of this presentation, which has proven very popular since 1867.

The acts and scenes will be interspersed by old fashioned olios of songs and dances by the dramatic class of the adult educational center of San Jose. Master of ceremonies will be the well-known and popular Tully Knoles, Jr., of Palo Alto.

Tickets are now on sale and may be obtained from members of St. Lucy's church.

Tenth Annual Meeting Held By Company

The Orchard Supply company, located at 44 Vine street and of which Stanley B. Smith is store manager, held its tenth annual meeting Saturday.

This cooperative store, Smith reported, is paying its regular seven per cent dividend and adding additional profits to its reserve. Among the directors elected to serve for the coming year are Lloyd Gardner, W. W. Lester, and George C. Payne.

Ralph H. Hyde was a business visitor in San Francisco Wednesday.

will be overwhelmingly "No." The question marks are the big cities. Is San Francisco more pro-labor than pro-"home town"? Ditto, Oakland? And will Los Angeles let civic pride and love of power out-weigh its antipathy to the "closed shop"? Such are some of the complicating factors in the titanic struggle approaching.

Choral Society to Present Program Monday, May 12

The choral society of the Congregational church will present to the community a very special evening of song and music on Monday, May 12, in the auditorium of the Campbell Grammar school. The proceeds will go towards the elimination of the debt on the new church organ.

James Isherwood of San Francisco, a well known west coast baritone and San Francisco teacher of music has offered his services to the church. He will be assisted by Dorothy Rich who is one of his artist pupils. Mr. Isherwood has been on the national boardcast for years and has appeared as soloist with the San Francisco municipal choir and symphony orchestra. Mrs. Isherwood will be the accompanist.

Miss Winifred Carnegie-Prior, a violinist of Vienna and Leipzig conservatories will be another artist to appear on the program.

Miss Prior, who was brought up in Roumania, has been a performer on her chosen instrument since six years of age, and has given concerts in practically all countries of the world.

She was decorated by Queen Victoria, to whom she was introduced by the Queen of Rumania, and stayed for several weeks in Osborne House.

Her Violin is valued at $2000 and she also has an expensive cello, an instrument on which she is also proficient.

Tickets for the concert are now available, prices very reasonable.

Mrs. Robertson Hostess to Service Club Wednesday

The Women's Service club of Campbell met at the home of Mrs. Milton Robertson Wednesday. The co-hostesses were Mrs. Margaret Richardson, Mrs. Howard Comstock and Mrs. R. D. Weaver.

A nominating committee was appointed by the president and a committee was appointed to investigate ways of helping needy families in the community.

Mrs. Earl Buck and Mrs. Ellis Crane were welcomed as new members. Mrs. Buck was the soloist at guest day.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. N. Lloyd on May 28. All members are asked to bring jelly or jam or canned fruit to be distributed to needy families.

After the business meeting refreshments were enjoyed by the 27 members present.

All standing committee heads are requested to tell of their committee activities for the year.

The board of directors will be hostesses for the afternoon and are Mrs. Wyland R. Morgan, president; Mrs. George E. Jeffers, first vice-president; Mrs. Willard H. Van Dyke, second vice-president; Mrs. Sue Boyce, recording secretary; Mrs. Emmet L. Farnham, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Howard J. Smith, parliamentarian; Miss Jessie-Lewis, treasurer; Mrs. John D. Blaine and Mrs. Joseph C. Leverton, directors.

"Spring Gambol" Saturday Night Very Successful

Under the able supervision of chairman, Mrs. Thelma Whitmore and her committee, the Ada Rebekah sponsored "Spring Gambol" held Saturday evening in the community hall, was in every way a brilliant success.

Dancing to the strains of music by a popular orchestra the guests thoroughly enjoyed the evening in a hall attractively decorated with flowers, colored streamers and balloons.

Refreshments were served at midnight after which another happy hour of dancing concluded a delightful evening.

Open House to be Held at Cambrian School Friday

For the first time the open house held in connection with Public Schools Week at Cambrian Grammar school will be held in the evening. This is to give a greater number of fathers an opportunity to see the work being done by the children.

After the supper the auditorium will be turned over to the various classes which have arranged a comprehensive program to show the progress made during the past year.

Dr. Peterson Is Guest Speaker At Kiwanis Luncheon

Dr. P. Victor Peterson of San Jose State college presented a very interesting account of "What's New in the Field of Industrial Chemistry" Tuesday when he was guest speaker at the Kiwanis luncheon.

He stated that discards of previous days are now the best money makers as examples, paper pulp, low grade crude rubber and waste ceramic materials. He also said that there has been more advancement in the production of rayon materials in the last six months than in the previous forty years.

This meeting being the fifteenth birthday anniversary of the club, a surprise birthday table had been arranged at which the remaining charter members were seated. Eight of the nine were present, Ira Abbott, Guy Farley, Carl Field, Ralph Hyde, Russell Kennedy, Dr. W. I. Merrill, Herold Morton and Mark Purmort. Nick Hede-gard was the absentee. Appropriate remarks were made by the president, Joe Gomes, and members.

An item of interest was the fact that the total years of 100 per cent attendance of these charter members is 80 plus.

J. O. Leverton was chairman of the day.

Next week being Music Week, A. A. Thielke will present a program by the Campbell Union Grammar school orchestra and will preside as chairman.

Annual Band, Orchestra Concert At High Friday

A concert by the Campbell Union High school band and orchestra will bring to a close one of the most successful Public School Weeks in the history of the school, Friday, May 2.

Among the orchestral numbers which have been arranged by Director A. A. Thielke are a flute solo arrangement of Beethoven's famous "Moonlight Sonata," played by Harvey Wood, and the beautiful Island theme of "By the Blue Hawaiian Waters" by Ketelbey.

A number of stirring band selections have been arranged, among which a trumpet duet by Loren and Duane Smith will be outstanding.

Miss Mary Sanfilippo has been assisting Mr. Thielke in the preparations for the event.

The Junior Hi-Y sponsored paper drive got under way this week. Paper and scrap iron will be called for and the boys will also help in the gathering. Just call the advisor, Lowell Benson, Campbell 220 and the boys will gladly pick up the papers. Proceeds from the drive will go towards a mountain fishing trip.

1200 Attend Open House At High School Tuesday

Open house night at Campbell Union High school, chief function of Public Schools Week, proved to be very interesting, educational and successful Tuesday evening in spite of the weatherman's attempt to disrupt the activities. A crowd estimated at more than 1200 thronged the halls and rooms of the school.

All of the buildings and classrooms were decorated with exhibits of the various types of work done by the students. Demonstrations in all five of the buildings went on all during the evening.

Orchestra and band concerts, under the direction of A. A. Thielke, were given four times during the evening as was concerts by the a cappella choir.

The one-act play by the dramatic class, under the direction of Dean Chamberlin was presented in the little theater four times and was well received by the audience.

The demonstration of the American folk dances staged by the girls' physical education classes proved popular, and the meeting of the student council and the panel discussions and operations of the student government, put on by the various social studies classes were well attended.

A veritable farm, displaying many projects of the Future Farmers, was an exhibit in the agricultural building, while wood and metalwork specimens were displayed by the shop classes in an adjoining room.

Art, English, mathematics, commerce, science—all of the many branches of learning that go to make up a modern high school curriculum, were represented in attractive displays.

Campbell Union High school is one of the fastest growing schools in the country. The enrollment in 1936-1937 was 506 and the enrollment to date is 861. This increased enrollment has made possible the addition of several new subjects and the reorganization of several other subjects in order to make them more valuable to the students.

Attractive mimeographed booklets were distributed and they gave a very comprehensive report on the activities of the school and the accomplishments of the students.

Archie Keesling had the misfortune to break a couple of ribs last week when he fell from a scaffolding.

Mrs. H. C. Smith went up to San Francisco Thursday night and returned Monday evening, visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Krohn. Two pleasant features of the visit were attending a showing of "Fantasia" and viewing the rhododendrons in Golden Gate park, most of which were in full bloom.

IT'S TIME FOR TROUT

Thousands of Californians are packing up their troubles in their old kit bags—fishing kits, to be exact—and hustling out into the wilds to welcome the opening of trout fishing season today.

By cool mountain streams, anglers can bid farewell to international crises, turn deaf ears to thunder over the Atlantic, and sending lines whistling through the reels, test the cunning of their casting arm since they last whipped the brooks and rivers. Trout-seekers, bent on catching the "limit," are already heading for the high country, determined to pick off the hungry risers while the season is young.

California's outdoors, the sportsman's delight, is once more playing host to a great army of anglers. We wish 'em good luck—and full creels.

SUBS AND SOVIETS

Father Hubbard, the "Glacier Priest" and world's greatest living authority on Alaska, has taken the trouble to spike one or two false reports during his current brief visit to California.

Having heard rumors, widely circulated in the United States a few months ago, that the Russians were establishing a military base on Big Diomed Island—Little Diomed, two miles distant, is owned by this country—Father Hubbard made a special 800-mile trip to see for himself. Signs of "military construction" proved to be only two antenna masts for a new weather station. The Glacier priest, who is placing his great store of knowledge of Alaska's topography and weather conditions at the War Department's disposal, further pointed out that Russia's Diomed Island, though larger than the American island, is of no military value. Little Diomed is higher. Guns placed on it could, in the event of hostilities, easily sweep over Big Diomed.

As for the recent report of a mysterious submarine supposedly seen off the southern coast of Alaska, Father Hubbard finds that this story originated with "four fisherman who had run out of whiskey and were drinking vanilla extract and wood alcohol. The same four have been reporting sea serpents for the last 20 years."

The chief moral of all this is that unconfirmed reports ought, in time of war jitters, be taken with a liberal pinch of salt.

GALLOPING GADGETEERS

Comes the month of May, comes the peddler.

The season of flowers in full bloom is likewise the season when the itinerant merchant also bursts forth, fortified with a new line of gleaming gadgetry and specious salesmanship. Be prepared for him!

With a firmly planted foot giving him a toehold between the door and the door-jamb, you will be introduced to the marvels of the Sisters of the Skillet Handy Helper, the combination bottlewasher and shoe polisher, the duplex razor sharpener and can opener, all these "bargains" for an amazingly low price. By the time Mrs. Housewife and her money are parted, and the worthless gadgetry is lying in a heap on the kitchen floor, the peripatetic peddler has flown—and so has the money. He offers no money back guarantees.

These hustling hucksters of the road have only one sure fire weapon—their customers' gullibility. But that gullibility is such that countless thousands of dollars are taken out of the community every year in this fashion. Yet the local stores offer an infinitely greater variety of genuine bargains than was ever contained in any drummer's suitcase. Unlike the fly-by-night seller, stores put thousands of dollars to work in their community, with their rent bills, tax payments and payrolls. Giving work to none, the galloping gadgeteer is content to "work" the community and hustle on to the victims in the next town.

Be prepared for him. Shop at home, but not at your front door!

JOBS FOR HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATES

There will be approximately 1,150,000 young people receiving their high school diplomas this year. Many of them will be out the next day looking for jobs. Many won't know how to go about the serious business of job-hunting—nor even what kind of work they may be best suited for.

OUR STATE GOVERNMENT

GEORGE REILLY

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

(In a new series of articles on "Our State Government," Commissioner George R. Reilly, our member of the State Board of Equalization, plans a streamlined analysis of the most important departments of state government, and their functions. The series when complete will give a comprehensive and informative picture to our readers as to how state government in California works.)

—EDITOR

Supreme executive power of the State of California is vested in the Governor. Originally the Governor's term of office was two years, but later was established at four, and he takes office on the first day of January, following his election.

His chief duties and powers include the transacting of all executive business with the civil and military officers of government to make appointments to vacated officers as required by law; to convene the Legislature in extraordinary session; to receive reports from executive officers, and transmit them, when necessary to the Legislature and the people; to exercise clemency in the matter of reprieves, pardons and commutations of sentence; to act as commander in chief of the state militia; to approve or disapprove all bills passed by the Legislature, and to submit a budget of proposed expenditures and estimated revenues for state government to the Legislature.

The incumbent is Governor Culbert L. Olson, Los Angeles.

Assisting the governor in an advisory capacity is the Governor's Council, which acts as his cabinet and meets monthly to keep him informed in regard to administrative work. The council includes the directors of Finance, Education, Public Works, Public Health, Institutions, Agriculture, Industrial Relations, Social Welfare, Natural Resources, Investment, Professional and Vocational Standards, Military and Veteran Affairs, and Penology.

Perhaps the most important function of the Secretary of State is his responsibility for enforcement of state election laws. In this he works with county clerks of the state's 58 counties. His office is charged also with approving all corporations. He must provide for their regulation, bonding, supervision and licensing. He is the keeper of the Great Seal of California, and is called upon to certify official acts of the Governor and other state officers. His term is four years and like the Governor, and Lieutenant Governor he is elected by the people. Fees collected by his office, enable that office to be self-supporting, and even turn money into the state general fund for other uses.

Paul Peek is now Secretary of State.

nounces it is ready to help answer those questions, to help the young job-hunter find work, to provide authoritative advice on apprentice training, to give certain aptitude tests and to provide certain vocational training courses.

For boys and girls armed with high school diplomas, national defense has opened many doors to jobs and to job training. The department reports it has been able to refer "completely inexperienced and untrained applicants who show aptitude" to various jobs in the aircraft industry, for example, as airplane cleaners, hacksaw machine operators, spray painters, parachute packers, etc. In the shipbuilding industry, openings have been found for helpers to angle press operators, shipbuilders; molders, ship fitters and welders. In scores of other industries, defense preparations have opened new opportunities in the simpler, semi-skilled occupations in which people can be trained on the job.

If getting the right man in the right job is important in peace time, it is vital in time of emergency. Giving young people a good start—a chance to stand on their own feet to do their part in the world of work—is one of the nation's most important obligations.

THE WEST SHOWS HOW

The conclusion of a pact by labor and management in the Pacific coast shipbuilding industry has set an example for the nation.

Recognizing that a critical emergency exists, that the cause of national security demands unstinted, uninterrupted effort by all groups participating in defense work, both employers' and workers' representatives have set their seal of approval on this pact of peace and cooperation.

Several weeks of conferences in Pacific coast port cities, while work went forward in the shipyards, were held in order to bring about this notable agreement. As completed, its provisions cover basic wages and hours, and assure adjustment of disputes without work stoppage.

If this can be achieved in Pacific coast shipbuilding, it can be done in the east and in other industries as well. The west has pointed the way.

The FARMERS CORNER

by RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary
Agricultural Council of California

Because the state Legislature, impatient with labor excesses during a period of national emergency, has refused to bend the knee to labor bosses at the current session—and has taken steps to safeguard the rights of all the people rather than just those who wear union buttons—it appears that the lawmakers are now being threatened with all manner of reprisals.

Many individual legislators who have had the courage and simple patriotism to support anti-sabotage legislation and bills to outlaw the secondary boycott have received threats from so-called labor leaders and radical agitators. In some instances, attempts to intimidate and coerce legislators have been so flagrant that criminal prosecutions would not be out of order.

And now a blanket system of reprisals, aimed at virtually the entire state Senate, is being openly advocated by the California State Federation of Labor through its secretary, Edward D. Vandeleur.

Mr. Vandeleur has announced that the AFL in California will move to do one of two things:

Reapportion the Senate according to population, thereby vesting control in the cities, where labor hopes to be able to dominate the election of its members, or:

Establish unicameral (one house) Legislature, abolishing the Senate entirely and placing rural California at the mercy of the great centers of population.

"Representation in the Senate today," says Vandeleur, "is highly undemocratic and lends itself to undue influence by special privilege."

Translated, that means, of course, that all senators who don't vote a 100 per cent union program must, perforce, be tools of the special interests. We would suggest that Mr. Vandeleur and his associates consult some of the recent polls of public opinion on labor's present position, for such polls show all too plainly that the majority of the people are even more impatient with labor excesses than the Senate.

And if the present system of electing the state Senate is "undemocratic," as charged, then the system of selecting the United States Senate is equally "undemocratic"—and the American people have been stumbling along for generations under the impression that they had democratic representation, whereas (if Mr. Vandeleur is right) the whole system is just a set-up for "special privilege."

The present plan of legislative representation in California, with one house elected on a population basis and the other chosen to give fair representation to each area, is known as "the federal plan" and was patterned after that successfully used in the national Congress.

As a matter of fact, labor leaders have gotten into the bad habit of resting their case on pressure and force, instead of fairness and merit and they are now seeking to carry into politics the same blackjack methods which have cracked heads and opposition on the strike front.

In many of their demands at the current legislative session, the labor lobbyists have been so unreasonable that even legislators from strong labor districts have rebelled at taking program. The Assembly, with the majority of its members elected from the cities, has given labor some severe spankings this year, too—and must share the blame with the Senate, if the Legislature is to be blamed as "anti labor." Actually, neither house is against the man who labors, but both houses are against racketeering in the name of unionism, just as they are against racketeering in business and industry.

Before the AFL in California decides to go to the people with reprisal proposals, aimed at any branch of the Legislature, it is to be hoped that the rank and file membership will be consulted—for the average worker, we believe doesn't have any intention of wrecking all the advances that the labor movement has made by alienating the friendship and regard of the people who do the voting. The people of California voted for the present plan of legislative representation and are not likely to vote it out just because a minority is unwilling to respect the rights of the majority.

Local Youth Finishes Basic Pilot Training

MOFFETT FIELD, April 30—Loren Donald Howie, 22, of Leigh avenue, is one of approximately 175 young men who have completed almost two-thirds of their flight training, and will report shortly to one of the advanced flying schools for the final 10-week period of training.

Howie reported at Moffett Field on February 11, following completion of the 10-week primary training course at Cal-Aero Training corporation at Ontario, Calif., one of the air corps' primary civilian training schools.

Prior to his acceptance as a flying cadet last November, Howie attended Los Gatos High school and San Jose State college. At the latter he was active in swimming and boxing. He had approximately 50 hours flight training with the CAA to his credit at the time of his enlistment.

Fishing Season Opens Today

Attention Fishermen! Trout (excepting golden trout) season opens in California today, May 1 in all districts and Tuolumne and Mariposa counties in district 138; in the remaining area in that district and other districts trout fishing does not start until May 30.

Everyone over the age of 18 years will need a license to go trout fishing, and H. R. Dunbar, chief of the Bureau of Licenses of the California State Division of Fish and Game, urges that you get the required license immediately.

The cost of a resident citizen angling license is $2.00; non-resident, $3.00; and alien, $5. Those not yet 18 years of age may fish without a license.

A new requirement recently passed by the California Fish and Game commission is that the license be worn on the clothing above the waistline and in plain view. Sportsmen in the field are requested to cooperate with fish and game wardens by complying with this regulation.

Some of the streams and lakes in the state have been closed to trout fishing, either for the entire season or for a limited time. A list of these waters closed by special order may be obtained from the offices of the Division of Fish and Game.

State Players to Present "Hamlet" Again May 3 and 4

Due to unprecedented public demand San Jose State College Players will present two added performances to their completely sold out series of five nights of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

These two performances will be on Saturday and Sunday evenings, May 3 and 4, at eight o'clock in the college little theater in San Jose.

An unusually large cast has been rehearsing for weeks and opened in the immortal tragedy on Wednesday of last week and played to capacity houses on all evenings. Public and review acclaim has been so great that added demand has justified repeats.

In the title role of Hamlet is James Clancy of the college speech department, assisted by Ray Irwin in the role of King Claudius, Barbara Trelease as Queen Gertrude, Lawrence Mendenhall as Polonius, Clarence Cascell as Laertes, Joseph Juracich as Horatio and Betty Stowe as Ophelia.

Elaborate costumes and settings have been designed for the production which is under the direction of Hugh W. Gillis. Tickets may be reserved by telephoning the college or writing in care of the speech department.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS

The Tawasi Camp Fire group of Campbell spent an enjoyable day at San Francisco on Saturday, April 26. The first part of the day was spent at Golden Gate park, where the girls had fun riding on the train, merry-go-round and other concessions.

After lunch, the group left the park to become guests of the United States Coast Guard. The girls then spent several hours on a tour of the local event.

Smith says that he will present a ten-act, three hour exhibition of thrilling maneuvers. In addition to Rankin, Sid Hoffman, young aerial dare-devil, Faye Cox, delayed 'chute jumper and Dorothy Barden, another 'chute jumper, will be on the program. Other fliers who have made their reputation flying for movie scenes, will also perform.

Coast Guard station. They were shown three different types of life-boats that are used to rescue people in distress, and all other equipment which is necessary for these rescues. The Guards entertained the girls by telling of their many sea experiences and by demonstrating flag signals that are used when the radios are out of commission.

Parents accompanying the girls were: Mr. and Mrs. E. Fahler and son, Mrs. J. Fields, Mrs. W. F. Gerrans, Mrs. E. Burkhart, and Mrs. L. Wolff.

Ernestine Fahler was in charge of the transportation and Violet Burkhart was chairman of the food committee.

The girls had a very enjoyable time even considering the two casualties, one girl got sick riding the merry-go-round, and another girl had to receive first aid from the Coast Guard when she fell just before entering the station.
